AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral
SAVED HIS LIFE
So says Mr. T. M. Reed, a highly-respected Merchant of Middletown, Ill., of a Young Man who was supposed to be in Consumption.

"One of my customers, some years ago, had a son who had all the symptoms of consumption. The usual medicines afforded him no relief, and he steadily failed until he was unable to leave his bed. His mother applied to me for some remedy and I recommended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The young man took it according to directions, and soon began to improve until he became well and strong."—T. M. REED, Middletown, Ill.

"Some time ago, I caught a severe cold, my throat and lungs were badly inflamed, and I had a terrible cough. It was supposed that I was a victim of consumption, and my friends had little hope of recovery. But I bought a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, took it, and was entirely cured. No doubt, it saved my life."—I. JONES, Emerts Cove, Tenn.

THE MAIDEN'S NECKLACE.

The little maid was fain to make herself
A necklace fine,
As silv'ry as the moonlight's silv'ry glance,
Or as the river when the moonbeams shine.

And so she asked the river, "Speak, wilt thou
Give me thy waves that in the moonlight dance?"
And then she went and asked the moon,
"Wilt thou
Give me thy glance?"

"Not so," the moon replied, "because the night
My glance doth need."
"Not so," the river answered her, "for I
Must keep my waters for the thirsty mead."

The little maid was fain to make herself
A necklace fine.
Then said the sons of men, "Come, take our tears
To fashion this bright silver chain of thine."

Then each one gave her his most precious tears,
And glad were they
To deck the maiden's throat, and all the tears
Thus whispered low together and did say:

"Whence art thou, sister; from what heart dost come?"
Then each one told the grief that did befall
Her parent heart, and each one thought herself
Saddest of all.

So now the maiden had her necklace bright,
More silvery than yonder river's wave
Or glance of moonlight, yet when she put on
That necklace brave

The tears all told her whence they came and grew
So heavy that beneath the burden sore
The maiden died, and on her grave that chain
Weighs evermore.

—From "Roumanian Folk Songs," Translated by Carmen Sylva.

The Mandolin's Popularity.

Perhaps the mandolin is stealing some of the popularity enjoyed by the banjo. At any rate, the former instrument is becoming a greater favorite in society, and shop windows show them much more frequently now than heretofore. Formerly all the mandolins used in this country were imported from Germany and Italy; now nearly all that are used here—and a great many are used—are made in this country. In the past year and a half or two years the mandolin has become very popular here, and its popularity shows no signs of diminishing. The demand for mandolins comes from all over the country, and it is so great that wholesale dealers in musical instruments are not always able to keep up with it promptly. It is said that we make in this country mandolins better than the imported, and the same is said of American guitars. Guitars made in this country are now used throughout the land, and they are also exported to all Spanish American countries.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

How Quail Are Caught.

When frightened, a quail will always hold his head up. This fact is always taken advantage of by trappers, and vast numbers of them are caught by the simplest of means. All that is necessary is a box with an opening through which the birds can pass. Trail them into the box with corn, and when once in the box they will never get out, because the hole being at the bottom they will look up and never see it. Another characteristic of quails assists the trappers—they will all follow their leader, and when he enters the box the entire covey is caught.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Valuable Refuse.

Goldsmiths "save" their floors and gilders their rags with surprising resultant economies. One important firm of jewelers in this city requires its factory employees to leave their working clothes at the factory. The work benches and floors are carefully swept nightly, but once in every few years floors, benches and clothes are burned. After one of these burnings the crucibles contain as a residuum thousands of dollars' worth of precious metal.—Chicago Herald.

Delaware's Ancient Law.

Delaware's ancient law requiring a bridegroom to give the state an indemnity bond never causes any serious trouble, and if the penalty was enforced it must have been a long while ago. The man going on the bridegroom's bond engages that the children that may come of the prospective union shall not become a charge upon the state.

Gotham's Human Hives.

The "rear" tenements of New York city, which house over 55,000 people, are called by the dwellers in the front tenements "yard houses," and there is some pride in the boast of never having lived in a "yard house," just as there is in never having lived in a basement.

Elevating.

"Have you really found that marriage has such an elevating tendency?"

"Most decidedly. Since I have been married I have removed to the fourth flat."—Humoristische Blatter.

A full blooded southern African negro is remarkable for his extraordinary length of arm, the Aymara Indian of Peru for the surprising shortness of the corresponding member.

The English settlement of Jamestown in 1607 was a private enterprise. American colonization was taken under the protection of the English government in 1624.

GULLS ARE SACRED IN UTAH.

Why Grateful Mormons Impose a Fine of $5 For Killing the Bird.

Most interesting of the birds that we saw on our daily walk to the pasture were the gulls—great, beautiful, snowy creatures, who looked strangely out of place so far away from the seashore. Stranger, too, than their change of residence was their change of manners from the wild, unapproachable sea birds, soaring and diving and apparently spending their lives on wings. From this high place in our thoughts, from this realm of poetry and mystery, to come down almost to the tameness of the barnyard fowl is a marvelous transformation, and one is tempted to believe the solemn announcement of the Salt Lake prophet that the Lord sent them to his chosen people.

The occasion of this alleged special favor to the Latter Day Saints was the advent about 20 years ago of clouds of grasshoppers, before which the crops of the western states and territories were destroyed as by fire. It was then, in their hour of greatest need, when the food upon which depended a whole people was threatened, that these beautiful winged messengers appeared. In large flocks they came, from no one knows where, and settled like so many sparrows all over the land, devouring almost without ceasing the hosts of the foe. The crops were saved, and all Deseret rejoiced.

Was it any wonder that a people trained to regard the head of their church as the direct representative of the highest should believe these to be really birds of God and should accordingly cherish them? Well would it be for themselves if other Christian peoples were equally believing, and protected and cherished other winged messengers sent just as truly to protect their crops. The shrewd man who wielded the destinies of his people beside the Salt lake secured the future usefulness of what they considered the miraculous visitation by fixing a penalty of $5 upon the head of every gull in the territory.

And now, the birds having found congenial nesting places on solitary islands in the lake, their descendants are so fearless and so tame that they habitually follow the plow like a flock of chickens, rising from almost under the feet of the indifferent horses and settling down at once in the furrow behind, seeking out grubs and larvæ and mice and moles that the plow has disturbed in its passage. The Mormon cultivator has sense enough to appreciate such service, and no man or boy dreams of lifting a finger against his best friend. Extraordinary indeed was this sight to eyes accustomed to seeing every bird that attempts to render such like service shot and snared and swept from the face of the earth. Our hearts warmed toward the "sons of Zion," and our respect for their intelligence increased as we hurried down to the field to see this latter day wonder.—Atlantic Monthly.

No Buddhists In India.

There are no Buddhists in India. There are many in Ceylon, and there is a sect of them in Nepal, an independent territory to the north on the borders of Buddhistic Tibet. The religion vanished from India in the early centuries of the Christian era. The neo-Brahmans set anti-Buddhas, so to speak, in the figures of Krishna, Mahadeva and Rama—demigods and idols of the great neo-Brahmanic religions, Vishnu worship and Siva worship—and these swept everything else before them until the Mohammedan conquest, and at the present day in one shape or another these forms of belief are adhered to by five-sixths of the population, the remainder being Mussulmans. The Buddhists are gone, though not without leaving behind them a rich legacy of philosophic thought and many monuments of their artistic genius. —Marion Crawford in Century.

"Treating" Customers.

The customer who is in the habit of taking solace out of the clay pipe may experience a beatitude through a choice Havana cigar which will allay discordant feelings and put him in good buying humor. But it must be handled cautiously by the traveler, and it must never appear that he goes about with a case full of the article intended expressly for the purpose of giving him an audience with the trade. The dealer is not to be bought, and if the offering of a cigar carries with it the remotest intimation of this sort the traveler had better pack his grip on the spot.—Traveling Salesman.

The Common View.

"Don't you believe the world is growing better?" asked the enthusiastic young woman.

"Well," replied the old gentleman, "the older people are less pig headed and prejudiced than were elderly people when I was a youth. But I do not think the young men of the present day have half the enterprise or judgment of those of my time."—Indianapolis Journal.

One Little Favor.

She—No, it can never be. I do not love you enough to be your wife. But before you go I want to ask one favor.

He (dejectedly)—Well, what?

She—Please do not marry any one else.—New York Weekly.

POLITICAL POINTS.

G. W. Beatty, candidate for Constable of Sonoma Township, was in town one day this week.

The Swiss and Italian citizens of Sonoma have organized an "Independent Republican Swiss-Italian Club" with a large membership. All things being equal the Club favors the Republican nominees. Otherwise, otherwise.

The Democratic nominees will address the people at Union Hall next Thursday night. Hon. Robt. Howe, G. W. Sparks and other leading Democrats of this place are making big preparations for the event. The Sonoma Valley Band has been engaged for the occasion. The meeting will wind up with a social hop. Ladies are especially invited to be present.

J. A. Barham, Republican nominee for Congress, and the county candidates will visit Sonoma next Friday. In the evening there will be a meeting at Union Hall which will be addressed by Mr. Barham and the nominees on the ticket with him. The Sonoma Valley Band has been engaged and will play a number of popular airs during the evening. After the speaking there will be a social hop for which the band boys will furnish the music. It is the intention of the Republicans to make this the largest political gathering that has ever congregated in this place. Everybody in general and the ladies in particular are invited to be present.

The Healdsburg Enterprise, a Democratic newspaper, is booming Mrs. Martin, who, after being defeated for a third-term nomination in the Republican County Convention, is running on her own hook for School Superintendent. John, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Prof. Abshire, the regular Democratic nominee, is a worthy and capable man for the office and that being so we can really see no reason why you should prefer the madam to him, especially when you are running at the head of your editorial columns the Democratic county ticket, with Prof. Abshire's name among the other nominees. "Oh, consistency, thou art a jewel," indeed.

Col. J. W. Oates and Hon. J. T. Campbell, Democratic nominees for Senator and Assemblyman respectfully, made their bow to the people of Sonoma at Union Hall, last Saturday evening. Both gentlemen are pleasing speakers, being above the average candidate for Legislative honors in forensic talent, education and experience. Messrs. Oates and Campbell are making a very unique canvass and in their speeches they pledge themselves to endeavor, if elected, to lop off a lot of useless appropriations made by former Legislatures, put down the salaries of over paid officials and to abolish altogether the army of political hangers-on who are given useless clerkships, janitorships, etc., for party service. Col. Oates also pledged himself to endeavor to reform the law governing the probating of estates. The meeting, which was well attended, was presided over by Hon Robt. Howe.

GLEN ELLEN.

Jas. Gibson is roofing and otherwise improving the Glen Ellen Hotel.

Joe Waddington attended to important business at the City of Roses last Tuesday.

The well borers on J. H. Martens' place have struck a strong stream of water at a depth of 45 feet.

E. R. Allen has been appointed mail messenger between the Postoffice and the Southern Pacific depot.

A. Simoni of this place is shipping quite a number of basalt blocks to the San Francisco Paving Company.

Owing to the slowness of fermentation the California Wine Association was compelled to suspend operations for a few days this week.

A. Harrison went fishing the other day and upon his return he stated that his catch amounted to a whale and two suckers. He ate the suckers, but brought home a piece of whale bone.

REMINGTON,
Glen Ellen, Oct. 18th, 1894.

FACT AND FANCY.

BY JEDWIN NEBWAME.

Ah wha hae heard o' Scotia's land
And not o' Robbie Burns?
Ah wha hae drank o' poetry
And not o' Robbie Burns?
Ah whar's the lad that loves his lass,
That loves not Robbie Burns?
And whar's the lass that loves her lad,
That loves not Robbie Burns?
Oh he's the lad with curling locks,
His eye is bonny blue,
And in his breast there beats a heart
That never beats untrue.
The lakes and rills, the ferns and hills,
The daisies in the burns,
Alike breathe forth in sweetest rhyme,
Their love for Robbie Burns.
So here's a health to Scotia's child,
The poet Robbie Burns,
Crowned by all the bard o' bards,
Our own, our Robbie Burns.

I love Robbie Burns and hold him to be the greatest lyric bard that the English world has produced. In saying this I mean neither more nor less than the words indicate. Undoubtedly there have been greater poets, but not lyric poets. Shakespeare surpasses him in breadth and depth of thought and the form of his work is, according to almost common consent, a higher one. Milton had a grander reach and grasp of things. It would be difficult to imagine Burns as the author of Paradise Lost or Hamlet, and equally hard to think of Tam O' Shanter as being one of Milton's writings. Easier would it be to think that Shakespeare wrote the tribulations of Tam and his stout mare Meg, but this simply adds force to the fact that Shakespeare is the sublime genius of our tongue.

Burns was born in a cottage near Ayr on the 25th of January, 1759 and from that time poverty was his lot till death came on the 21st of July, 1796. From the above it is seen that he died young—thirty-seven and a half years. By the time he was twenty-two he had written his first verses of note, "Behind yon hills where Stinchar flows."

Robert was a plough boy and principal laborer on his father's farm. At the age of thirteen he threshed the corn with his own hands. So straitened were the circumstances of the family that for several years butcher's meat never entered the house. "This kind of life," he writes, "the cheerless gloom of a hermit and the unceasing toil of a galley slave brought me to my sixteenth year." So much work and so little play overtaxed his naturally strong constitution and early in life his health deserted him. It was this continual drudgery that finally made him seek solace in wine, which throughout his life was one of his two worst enemies.

About the twenty-fifth year of his life he met and fell in love with Jean Armour, his future wife. But the father of the young lady discountenanced the suit and Burns gave it up with the intention of going to Jamaca as book-keeper on a slave plantation. He had taken passage on a ship and had bade farewell to his friends and native land. Fate had ordained, however, that this should not be. His first volume of poetry was published in 1786 and met with instant and hearty welcome. "The country murmured of him from sea to sea." His name was on everybody's lips. This volume contained some of his most justly celebrated poems. Their titles are indicative of the breadth of his sympathy. "The Two Dogs," "The Author's Prayer," "Address to the Deil," "The Vision," "The Dream," "Halloween," "The Cotter's Saturday Night," "Lines to a Mouse," "To a Daisy," "Man was Made to Mourn" and "Scotch Drink."

This volume gained for him recognition by the men of letters in Edinburgh whither he was invited and feasted. Scott saw him there during this time and thus describes him: "His person was robust, his manners rustic, not clownish. His countenance was more massive than it looks in any of his portraits. There was a strong expression of shrewdness in his lineaments. The eye alone indicated the poetic temperament and character. It was large and of a dark cast and literally glowed when he spoke with feeling or interest. I never saw such another eye in a human head. His conversation expressed perfect self-confidence without the least intrusive forwardness."

The first edition brought Burns but twenty pounds, but it secured for his talents a recognition which to him was more than gold. Lockhart says that the attention he received did not turn his head. "In the whole strain of his bearing he manifested his belief that in the society of the most eminent men of his nation he was where he was entitled to be, hardly deigning to flatter them by exhibiting a symptom of being flattered."

In 1787, the second edition of his poems came out and from it he realized four hundred pounds which enabled him to take two tours through England and Scotland. In 1788 he took a farm on the Vith, settled there, married, lost his little money and wrote among other pieces "Auld Lang Syne" and "Tam O'Shanter."

Through the kind offices of a friend he received an appointment as excise officer of the district worth fifty pounds per annum. The next year, 1791, he removed to a similar post at Dumfries worth seventy pounds.

Shortly after this he was asked to edit and supply the "Melodies of Scotland with Symphonies and Accompaniments for the Pianoforte and Violin, the poetry by Robert Burns." In this volume are about one hundred of his songs, some of which are "ringing in the ear of every Scotchman from New Zealand to San Francisco." For these original and adapted he received a shawl for his wife, a picture by David Allan representing the "Cotter's Saturday Night," and five pounds! The poet wrote an indignant letter and never afterwards wrote for money.

The last years of his life were embittered by his banishment from polite society on account of his Jacobin tendencies. "He became more sour in temper and plunged more deeply into the dissipations of the lower ranks, among whom he found his only companionship and sole, though shallow, sympathy." His last years were unhappy and he saw that he was nearing his end. In April, 1796, he wrote; "I fear it will be some time before I tune my lyre again. By Babel's streams I have sat and wept. I have only known existence by the presence of sickness and counted time by the percussion of pain. I close my eyes in misery and open them without hope. I look on the vernal day and say with poor Ferguson:

"Say wherefore has an all-indulgent heaven
Lent to the comfortless and wretched given."

On the 12th of July he wrote to his cousin for the loan of ten pounds to save him from passing his last days in jail. On the 25th he was buried, and now we mourn.

Note—The above facts concerning the life of Burns are all taken from Britannica.

From the above it is easily seen that Burns' life was not a happy one and this fact is often shadowed in his poetry. A kind of melancholy runs through much of it, but by no means masters the thought. I am indeed sorry that I have not a copy of the poems with me for I would like much to give a few lines that bear out my statement, but which I can not recall. In a future issue I will take this subject up in another form.

Now, why can't we have a Library? There is no reason that I know of except an apathy which always envelopes an undertaking of any sort. "The world do move," however, and I expect, in the course of time, before I am too feeble to wield a broom that Sonoma will do herself proud and that I will be the janitor of her glory. I do not know how much money that infernal, tooting merry-go-round took out of town, but if it took away only one-third as much as it did last year it took enough to start a library and a useful one.

It is not my idea to form a society which will hold meetings, and debate, and read essays, and have critics, and elect secretaries, and have rules of order, and what not and what not. All that is needed is a governing board and a librarian who shall be responsible to them and to them alone.

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try

We would remind the property-owners of Sonoma that the city taxes for the year 1894 are now due and payable to City Tax Collector Robin. If the first installment is not paid before the third Monday of next month fifteen per cent will be added to the amount thereof. Mr. Robin can be found at his office in the City Pavilion every Saturday from now until the taxes become delinquent.

"During my service in the army I contracted chronic diarrhœa," says A. E. Bending of Halsey, Oregon. "Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow." For sale by all dealers. *

Farmers are now busy plowing and seeding. The rain which fell last Wednesday and Thursday was most welcome to both the farmer and stock-raiser, following so opportunely the showers of one month ago, which put the ground in good condition for plowing and started pasturage to growing. This latest rainfall will enable farmers to continue plowing and seeding and will ensure plenty of green feed for stock in a few weeks. The season has opened most auspiciously.

Judge Cheney on Monday last dismissed the charges against D. D. Davisson and A. J. Van Every, two well-known residents of this place, who engaged in a political squabble in this town on Tuesday of last week. The action of the Judge is being favorably commented on by every one in the community, as any other action would have entailed a needless expense on the county. As it is, the costs were paid by Mr. Davisson and justice has been subserved in every sense of the word by the dismissal of the charges sworn out by both parties in a fit of anger.

R. X. Ryan, general passenger agent of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company, in another column requests the owners of ranches accessible to that line of railway who desire to take boarders next season to send him their names and addresses together with the exact location of their farms, accommodations and prices. The information is desired by Mr. Ryan for the purpose of giving it to the general public. The S. F. & N. P. people are not only looking after the interests of their railroad line but are also striving to benefit the communities through which it passes.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

The Old Concern Flooded by the Late Rain.

The rain which fell last Wednesday night and Thursday morning flooded the High School building to such an extent that the teachers dismissed the scholars for the balance of the week. The roof of the building had been removed to make way for a new one and when the rain came it poured down into the class-rooms without let or hindrance doing much damage to the school furniture and the books and stationery of the students. When the hour arrived for the school to open on Thursday morning water to the depth of three inches or more was found upon the floors of the class rooms. The plastering of the building was also dampened and ruined. Now, that winter has set in it would not surprise us in the least if a majority of the students of the High School were stricken down with rheumatism, pneumonia and other pulmonary diseases as the building is damp and unhealthy. Gentlemen of the High School Board, better set all other considerations aside and look after the health of the students and abandon the old concern for better and safer quarters.

We would suggest in order to guard the health of the students of the High School and to save the taxpayers a heavy and useless expense in purchasing land and erecting a building thereon that the school be taken back to the Sonoma Grammar School building, from whence it was removed a few months ago. With the addition of an annex costing a few hundred dollars ample room could be provided for both schools.

We are sure the people of the Union High School districts favor that proposition, and in so far as the people of this city are concerned hardly one objection would be interposed. That being so, the Trustees of the High School and Grammar School ought to come together and make the change.

The Home for Feeble Minded.

Robert. A. Poppe of this place has been appointed by Governor Markham one of the Directors of the Home for Feeble Minded Children which is located a few miles northwest of Sonoma. The appointment is a good one and will be appreciated by the people of this valley irrespective of politics or religious creed. Mr. Poppe is a prominent attorney and is in every respect qualified for the position. Ever since the establishment of the Home in this vicinity several years ago it has been a matter of surprise to our people that Sonoma Valley has been unrepresented on the Board of Directors, which consists of five members. The institution is located in the center of the valley and as a matter of course every resident takes an interest in its fnture welfare. That being the case we can see no reason why this section should not be represented on the Board by two members, and we hope it will be when another vacancy occurs. The present Board is now composed of the following well-known citizens: Geo. W. Gibbs, San Francisco; Chas. P. Eells, San Francisco; F. W. Lougee, San Francisco; A. P. Overton, Santa Rosa and Robert A. Poppe, Sonoma. The Chairman of the Directors is Mr. Gibbs.

The District Attorney Fight.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE:

Within less than three weeks the voters of this county will be called upon to make a choice between Emmet Seawell, the present incumbent, and Lyman Green for the important office of District Attorney. That office is too important to the people to permit party ties to hold them down to a strict party vote. Protection to life, liberty and property depends largely on the experience, efficiency and ability of the prosecuting officer. He meets the ablest attorneys in California and it is necessary that the District Attorney should be strong in argument and familiar with the criminal law. Mr. Seawell has made one of the best District Attorney's Sonoma county ever had, and we have had some able ones. His record during the past two years both in criminal and civil matters has never been surpassed. He has served but one term and his efficiency entitles him to re-election. We know we have a safe man in Emmet Seawell. That has been proved by cases that have gone to the Superior Court from this township as well as from other parts of the county.

CATHOLIC FAIR.

Fine Programme to be Presented on This and Monday Evening.

The Catholic Fair opened in Union Hall last Wednesday evening with an excellent programme and a good attendance for the opening night. The following numbers were excellently rendered: Cornet solo, H. G. Maxwell; vocal duet, Mrs. Emparan and Miss Natalie Haraszthy; piano solo, Miss Cecilia Granice; vocal solo, Miss Pauline Bates; instrumental duet, H. G. Maxwell and Claude Johnson.

On Thursday and Friday evenings the attendance was much larger than on the previous evening. The programme presented on the former evening was as follows: Toy symphony, Choral Society; recitation, Miss Clara Cheney; instrumental duet, Mrs. Walliser and Miss Aguillon.

Last night there was a recitation by Prof. D. Estrella and the Sonoma Minstrel Troupe, composed of a number of our society young ladies and gentlemen, entertained the audience with "The Old Kentucky Home," which was really a rare treat.

To-night the following numbers will be presented: Instrumental duet, H. G. Maxwell and Claude Johnson; vocal solo, Miss Claire Hope; vocal solo, Mr. O'Donnell; vocal duet, Mrs. H. Angell and Miss Natalie Haraszthy; euphonium solo, Claude Johnson.

The interior of Union Hall, where the Fair is being held, has been attractively fitted up by the ladies. The sides of the hall are occupied by tastefully arranged booths containing articles of almost every description, both ornamental and useful, which are being disposed of by handsome and attractive young ladies.

The following ladies have charge of the various booths:

Fancy booth — Mrs. Stevenot, Mrs. Emparan and Mrs. Haraszthy.

Ten-cent booth—Mrs. M. Haraszthy.

Refreshment booth—Mrs. M. F. Mullen, Mrs. John Watt and Mrs. Brundage.

Lemonade booth—Mrs. N. Dowdall and Mrs. Graham.

Ice Cream booth—Miss Miller and the Misses Biggins.

Candy booth—Miss Malone and Miss Bagacalupi.

Children of Mary booth—Thirty young ladies.

The ladies of the refreshment booth will serve lunch to-day consisting of hot tea and coffee, chicken, ham, roast meats, salads, pie and cake and other goodies for 25c for adults and 10c for children.

The New Wine Syndicate.

Business is brisk just now at the offices of the California Wine Association, This is the company or sydicate that was organized a month or two ago with the object of controlling the wine product of the State and of putting the business on a more secure foundation.

There was an attempt made to secure options on 90 per cent of the grape crop and wine product of the present season, but that undertaking fell through.

H. Epstein, Vice President of the association, says that the association is making good progress with its business. The prices paid for grapes run from $8 to $10 a ton, which is from $1 to $2 a ton better than the rates of last season. The vintage is short but the quality is good.

Mr. Epstein estimates that the grape crop is about three-fifths of a full crop and that the vintage will be from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 gallons.

"One of the objects of the association," said Mr. Epstein, "is to raise the standard of California wines by selecting only the best product for export, which, under a diversity of interests, no single house can possibly afford to undertake. The poorer grades will now be distilled or otherwise disposed of by concerted action of the firms interested and California wines will be furnished under a trade mark which shall be the synonym for purity, soundness and quality.

"The association will also undertake such a grading and vintage selection of California wines and brandies as will secure for them equal standing with any foreign wines throughout the civilized world."

The principal wine houses represented in the association are C. Carpey & Co., Arpad Haraszthy & Co., Kohler & Frohling, B. Dreyfus & Co., Kohler & Van Bergen, S. Lachman & Co., and the Napa Valley Wine Company.—Bulletin.

The fruit market, like all other markets, says the San Jose Mercury, is subject to seasons of depression as well as to seasons of marked activity. Every few years an orchardist here or there digs up peach trees to plant figs, almonds to plant prunes, or cherries to plant pears. Prices advance and recede and the man with any one variety of fruit, provided it is planted in the proper soil and well attended, generally adds to his bank account. The man who has several varieties of the choicest and most profitable varieties of fruit is always sure of at least an average income.

Mrs. Harriet McKean and infant daughter of San Francisco were visiting Mrs. Ellen Cassebohm of Schellville several days last week. They returned to their home last Monday.

Dishes should be arranged for washing in the following order: Glass, silver, cups and saucers and finally plates and dishes. The rule is always to wash the cleanest first and to wash few at a time. Two pans should be used, one for washing and one for rincing, and the water in both should be changed as soon as it becomes cool or dirty. Plates should always be thoroughly scraped before washing. There should be an abundance of towels and dish cloths should always be washed out afterward in fresh water, and boiled once a week and hung in the sun whenever possible.

A country minister in a certain town took permanent leave of his congregation in the following pathetic manner: "Brothers and sisters, I come to say good-by. I don't think God loves this church, because none of you ever die. I don't think you love each other, because I never marry any of you. I don't think you love me, because you have not paid my salary. Your donations are moldy fruit and wormy apples, and 'by their fruits ye shall know them.' Brothers, I am going away to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of a penitentiary. Where I go you cannot come, but I go to prepare a place for you and may the Lord have mercy on your souls. Good-by."

Miss Bertie Aguillon was visiting in the metropolis one day this week.

W. A. McCauley entertained friends from San Francisco last Sunday.

Rev. Tudor Moreton and his estimable wife left Sonoma Thursday morning for their old home in England. Mr. and Mrs. Moreton during their sojourn in this valley made many friend who greatly regret their departure.

General Booth has changed the shape of the Salvation lasses' bonnets abroad. The familiar bonnet of blue straw is replaced by one of white straw of a much less eccentric shape, trimmed with white lace, on which is a red ribbon bearing the inscription "Armee du Saint." The same change in the shape, it is said, will be made here.

Potato cones or loaves—Boil and mash some potatoes, mix with them a seasoning of pepper, salt and onion juice. Beat into the potato a sufficient quantity of fresh butter to bind it; divide it into equal parts and form it into loaves or cones. Place them under roast beef or mutton to slightly brown, allowing a little gravy to fall on them.

Bread griddle cakes—One quart of boiling milk, two quarts of bread crumbs, three eggs, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little hot water. Soak the bread in the milk ten minutes in a covered bowl, beat it to a smooth paste, add the beaten yolks, butter, salt, soda and finally the whites beaten stiff.

Glazed apples for desert—Take a dozen large apples, use a cupful of sugar and a cupful and a half of water. Put one cupful of sugar in a saucepan with the water and boil rapidly for twenty minutes. Pare and core the apples, keeping them whole. Put them in deep earthen plates and put a teaspoonful of sugar in the center of each apple. Baste the outside of each apple with about half a teaspoonful of the hot syrup. Place the pans in a moderately hot oven and bake the fruit until it is tender, basting frequently with the syrup. When the apples are done place them on a flat dish and pour over them the juice from the pan on which they were baked. Serve cold with a bowl of whipped cream.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness and that is by constitutional remedies, Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, OCT. 20, 1894.

Royal Names.

If Queen Victoria had occasion to use a family name, it would be Wettin, so far as it would be anything. She was a Guelph or Welf by birth and married Albert von Wettin, so she would be now Mrs. Albert von Wettin or Wettin if she followed the ordinary rule. But continental royal families seldom if ever have any surnames. The British and Scotch royal families—the old ones—are exceptions. Thus the old royal house of France was "of Bourbon," "of Orleans;" the kings of Prussia belong to the family "of Hohenzollern." Not one of these princes is called Louis Bourbon, Louis Orleans, William Hohenzollern. The British royal house is British only because it lives and rules in Great Britain. It is wholly German in ancestry for nearly 300 years and follows continental customs. All real British royal houses had surnames. —New York Sun.

The Camel.

Although long a captive, and for ages perhaps, the most serviceable of all the creatures which man has won from the wilds, the camel is still only partly domesticated, having never acquired even the small measure of affection for his master which we find in the other herbivorous animals which have been won to the service of man. The obedience which he renders is but a dull submission to inevitable toil. The intelligence which he shows is very limited, and so far as I can judge from the accounts of those who have observed him there is but little variation in his mental qualities. As a whole, the creature appears to be innately the dullest and least improvable of all our servitors. —Exchange.

Johnson's Patent Hens' Nests.

Charles Johnson has invented a patent hen's nest that is a very great convenience to Biddy, and it is an automatic persuader for her to do good work. When the hen approaches the nest, a wicket door gently opens, and after she passes in it closes, and the hen has private apartments all to herself. The egg of its own weight opens a trapdoor and rolls noiselessly out of sight. Then when the hen arises, puts her hands in her pockets and gets ready to walk out, not seeing the egg, she thinks she has made a mistake and lays another. This sort of thing is repeated until the heft of the chicken buds in the box below touches off a spring and Biddy is fired out of the apartment.—Hannibal Journal.

Bad Handwriting and Printers.

Mr. Robert Clark, the Edinburgh printer, used to tell the following story: "Professor Lindsay Alexander came in hot haste on a Friday with the MS. of a sermon and asked to have proofs of it ready for him on the following day. We said the time was rather too short, and he must give a few days longer. 'No, I can't. It's impossible,' he replied in great anxiety. 'I must preach this sermon tomorrow. It is a special sermon. I wrote it 10 years ago, and now I can't make out a word of it.'"

Kansas has farms valued at $450,000,000, which produce every year $140,000,000 of crops. Over $2,000,000 is invested in beet sugar factories, and the sorghum cane produces 1,500,000 pounds of sugar and 5,000,000 gallons of sirup. The dairy products are valued at $30,000,000.

An acre of land will yield more in the way of food when planted with bananas than with anything else. The product of an acre of bananas is 133 times as great as that of an acre of wheat.

Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this Remedy is taken as soon as a cold has been contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, it will counteract the effect of the cold and lessen it's severity, and it is the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly. For sale by all dealers. *
